MODEL 98B®

There are no predecessors. Even the casual observer can see that the Model 98B is not a descendant of the bolt-action deer rifle. In fact, it's not a descendant of anything. This first-born brainchild was developed to be a completely unique, purpose-built platform for precision long-range shooting. Every inch of the never-before seen Model 98B is carved from years of hard-earned insight.

Thanks to its modular layout, this rifle can be adapted to fit each user's exact needs. Its straight-line design, running from the muzzle to the shooter's shoulder, tames recoil. It also allows for faster, more accurate follow-up shots fed from the 10-round detachable magazine. The ergonomic pistol grip reduces muscle fatigue and provides total control over the fully adjustable trigger. An intuitive, thumb-operated safety can be accessed without compromising the firing grip. This allows the shooter to maintain a solid weld to the adjustable cheek piece. The oversized bolt handle can then be easily manipulated, feeding a fresh round into the chamber as the bolt silently glides through a polymer guide.

As for optics and accessories, the Model 98B rifle's aluminum upper receiver boasts an 18-inch M1913 optics rail, offering plenty of space to mount substantial optics as well as a night sight or laser designator. The forward receiver is drilled and tapped for accessory rails to be mounted at the 3, 6 and 9 o'clock positions.

This revolutionary long-range weapon isn't all work. Equipped with a rear monopod and forward bipod, it's also a pleasure to shoot. From its highly efficient muzzle brake to its shooter adaptable design and never-before seen performance, the 98B is ingenuity in action.
